

Keeping your account and data secure

To protect your personal information, you should keep both your account on GitHub.com and any associated data secure.

-
- About authentication to GitHub
  - Creating a strong password
  - Updating your GitHub access credentials
  - Managing your personal access tokens
  - Reviewing your SSH keys
  - Reviewing your deploy keys
  - Token expiration and revocation
  - Reviewing your security log
  - Security log events
  - Removing sensitive data from a repository
  - About anonymized URLs
  - About GitHub's IP addresses
  - GitHub's SSH key fingerprints
  - Sudo mode
  - Preventing unauthorized access
  - Viewing and managing your sessions

Legal