

About saved replies

---

You can use a saved reply to respond to an issue or pull request.

Saved replies allow you to create a reusable response to issues and pull requests. Save time by creating a saved reply for the responses you use most frequently.

Once you've added a saved reply, it can be used in issues, pull requests, and discussions. Saved replies are tied to your personal account. Once they're created, you'll be able to use them across repositories and organizations.

You can create a maximum of 100 saved replies. If you've reached the maximum limit, you can delete saved replies that you no longer use or edit existing saved replies.

You can also use the GitHub Enterprise Server-provided "Duplicate issue" saved reply to mark an issue as a duplicate and track it with a similar issue.

Further reading

---

- "Creating a saved reply"
- "Using saved replies"
- "Editing a saved reply"
- "Deleting a saved reply"

Legal