

Working with saved replies

To save time and make sure you're delivering a consistent message, you can add saved replies to issue and pull request comments.

About saved replies

You can use a saved reply to respond to an issue or pull request.

Creating a saved reply

If you frequently add the same comment over and over, you can create a saved reply.

Editing a saved reply

You can edit the title and body of a saved reply.

Deleting a saved reply

If you find that you're no longer using a saved reply, you can delete it.

Using saved replies

When commenting on an issue or pull request, you can add a saved reply that you've already set up. The saved reply can be the entire comment or if you want to customize it, you can add or delete content.

Legal