

The REST API is now versioned. For more information, see "About API versioning."

Interactions

Use the REST API to set the interaction limit for the users in your organizations and repositories.

About interactions

Users interact with repositories by commenting, opening issues, and creating pull requests. You can use the REST API to allow people with owner or admin access to temporarily restrict interaction with public repositories to a certain type of user.

Organization interactions

Get interaction restrictions for an organization

Set interaction restrictions for an organization

Remove interaction restrictions for an organization

Repository interactions

Get interaction restrictions for a repository

Set interaction restrictions for a repository

Remove interaction restrictions for a repository

User interactions

Get interaction restrictions for your public repositories

Set interaction restrictions for your public repositories

Remove interaction restrictions from your public repositories

Legal