

Keeping your account and data secure

To protect your personal information, you should keep both your account on GitHub.com and any associated data secure.

-
- About authentication to GitHub
 - Creating a strong password
 - Updating your GitHub access credentials
 - Managing your personal access tokens
 - Reviewing your SSH keys
 - Reviewing your deploy keys
 - Token expiration and revocation
 - Reviewing your security log
 - Security log events
 - Removing sensitive data from a repository
 - About anonymized URLs
 - About GitHub's IP addresses
 - GitHub's SSH key fingerprints
 - Sudo mode
 - Preventing unauthorized access
 - Viewing and managing your sessions

Legal