Configuring branches and merges in your repository

You can manage branches in your repository, configure the way branches are merged in your repository, and protect important branches by defining the mergeability of pull requests.

Managing branches in your repository

Viewing branches in your repository

Renaming a branch

Changing the default branch

Deleting and restoring branches in a pull request

Configuring pull request merges

About merge methods on GitHub

Configuring commit merging for pull requests

Configuring commit squashing for pull requests

Configuring commit rebasing for pull requests

Managing suggestions to update pull request branches

Managing auto-merge for pull requests in your repository

Managing the automatic deletion of branches

Managing protected branches

About protected branches

Managing a branch protection rule

Legal

© 2023 GitHub, Inc.   Terms   Privacy   Status   Pricing   Expert services   Blog