Managing marketing emails from GitHub

In this article

About GitHub marketing emails

Managing GitHub marketing emails

Unsubscribing from GitHub marketing emails

Further reading

In addition to notifications and account emails, GitHub occasionally sends marketing emails with news and information about our products. If you unsubscribe from existing marketing emails, you won't be included in future campaigns unless you change your GitHub email settings.

About GitHub marketing emails 🔗

GitHub occasionally sends the following types of marketing emails:

- Tips and tricks for getting started with your account
- Customized information about engaging projects or new features
- Newsletters that you've subscribed to

Managing GitHub marketing emails 🔗

If you have subscribed to GitHub marketing emails, you can choose which types of topics you still want to be informed about, and which topics you no longer want to receive updates on.

1. In the upper-right corner of any page, click your profile photo, then click Settings.

2. In the "Access" section of the sidebar, click ✉ Emails.

3. Under "Email preferences", to the right of your email address, click Manage.

4. To stop receiving emails for a particular topic, deselect the checkbox next to that topic.

5. Click Save subscription preferences.

Unsubscribing from GitHub marketing emails 🔗

You can choose to unsubscribe from all GitHub marketing emails.

1. In the upper-right corner of any page, click your profile photo, then click Settings.

2 In the "Access" section of the sidebar, click ✉ Emails.

3 Under "Email preferences", to the right of your email address, click Manage.

4 Select Unsubscribe from all topics.

5 Click Save subscription preferences.

Further reading 🔗

- "Types of emails GitHub sends"
- "Configuring notifications"

Legal

© 2023 GitHub, Inc.   Terms   Privacy   Status   Pricing   Expert services   Blog